SOCIAL CHATTER AND HOME TALK

THE Longworth "at home" and the Fleet have occupied the attention of Honolulu this week—besides innumerable dinners, teas and bathing parties. It has been one grand excitement, and the weather, so warm and humid, has made the rushing about anything but a pleasure. There have been heart burnings, much envy, malice and strife—but the world does not stop for little things like that even in Honolulu, but goes on its way serene and calm, an object lesson that mortals may well emulate.

Irwin Dinner.

The beautiful dinner which Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin gave on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, ex-Governor and Mrs. George Carter, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder, Miss Margaret Hyde-Smith, Miss Helene Irwin, Messrs. Walter and Harold Dillingham. The guest of honor, Mrs. Longworth, in a Princess dress of cloth of silver looked charming. Mrs. Irwin, in white lace, white satin and pearls, presented a striking picture. In the heavy bowl of beaten Russian silver, shaped like a boat, with candles attached, tall white filices were placed, and maidenhair ferns were confined artistically about the snowy napery. Bridge occupied the attention of the guests during the evening.

Hatch's Entertain.

Judge and Mrs. Hatch entertained on Sunday at dinner in honor of Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Dunbar, Mexican creeper formed the pretty table decoration.

Roses and Lunch.

Roses formed the exquisite centerpiece at the lunch given by Mrs. George Carter in honor of Mrs. Dora von Tempky on Tuesday at her country place at Kailua. The surroundings are most picturesque, the guests thoroughly enjoying the change from town. Mrs. von Tempky was in her most brilliant mood, and entertained everybody by her sly remarks. The guests included Mrs. Carl Holloway, Mrs. Faxon Bishop, Mrs. Charles Wight, Mrs. F. M. Hatch, Mrs. Blackman, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. Jack Dowsett, Mrs. Galt, Miss Margaret Walker, Mrs. Francis Swanzy.

Opening Driveway.

Judge and Mrs. Francis Hatch celebrated the opening of their new driveway on Tuesday by asking a few of their friends in to christen the event. It was a most informal affair, as the guests were telephoned in the morning, and Tuesday was selected because being the Waikiki day, many would drop in to call, and, of course, be urged to remain for the unique affair. Precisely at five-thirty the shrill whistle of an automobile was heard, and aiming directly for the new gateway, across which was strung pink leis, a huge motor came rapidly along and the slender obstructions gave way. Harold Castle was the chauffeur and in the motor were Misses Helene Irwin, Marion Scott, Harriet Hatch, Irene Fisher, Nora Sturgeon, Walter Dillingham and Gilchrist Hatch. A second car followed, holding Harold Dillingham and Margaret Hyde-Smith. Under the trees a substantial tea was served in which champagne played an important part. Mrs. Hawes, Senior, in her chair, held quite a court and chatted with her old friends throughout the afternoon. It was a great pleasure to have her honor the affair, as it is most unusual for the past few years for her health to admit of much social distraction. Mrs. Hatch was a becoming pink dress, and, although tired from much packing, entertained in the charming manner for which she is noted. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Fred Macfarlane, Mrs. Faxon Bishop, Mrs. Dowsett, Mrs. Dora von Tempky, Mrs. James Castle, Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. Blackman, Mrs. Frear, Miss Margaret Walker, Miss Anna Paris, Mrs. M. J. Scott, Miss Marion Scott, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Dillingham, Miss Nannie Winston, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Hawes, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Hawes, Jr., Miss Irwin, Miss Hyde-Smith, Miss Irene Fisher, Miss Lenora Sturgeon, Governor Cleghorn, Captain Staunton, late flag lieutenant for Admiral Miller, Captain Houdlette, Walter and Harold Dillingham, Harold Castle, Count Canavaro, George Canavaro, Dr. Sheldon, Lieut. Everle.

Wilder's Depart.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder sailed in the Sierra for an extensive trip to California. They took their motor along, which augurs well for a pleasant outing.

Luau to Mr. and Mrs. London.

At the pretty little port of Ke Au Hau there was held a native luau in honor of Mr. and Mrs. London. Thursday evening August 29th. It was a Hawaiian affair without holed trimmings, the feast being spread on the ground on mats and the food consisting of seven kinds of fish, cooked and raw, poi, besides the other Hawaiian dishes, with coconut milk to drink. At one end of the pier was spread the Hawaiian flag, the posts being decorated with streamers of leaves and flowers. Leis were placed around the shoulders of the distinguished guests, and the feast began. Mrs. White, Miss L. Meyers, Dr. and Mrs. Goodhue were other haole invited. Mr. and Mrs. London did ample justice to the various dishes and pleased the natives very much by calling for more raw fish. They twirled the poi with their fingers and seemed to enjoy even the formidable looking shell fish. Speeches were made by Mr. Nahaie, Mr. J. N. Koomou and Henry Kawewehi, also by Dr. Goodhue, with responses by Mr. and Mrs. London and Mrs. Goodhue. Then followed a hula by some old natives with music and general dancing. Prince Cupid and Rev. Mr. Desha called and paid their respects to the guests. Mr. London said that he had not yet attended an "unadulterated" luau, and he was very much pleased with this one.

Mrs. Weathered's Song.

The song and two step composed by S. K. Nainoa, manager of the Royal Hawaiian Glee Club, for the Lucky Seven and sung at the night of the dance given in honor of the girls and Mrs. Weathered has caught the fancy of the Honolulu public and has become a daily topic among the musical class of the town. But even more is Mrs. Weathered, chaperon of the Lucky Seven girls, very enthusiastic over this good work of the Glee Club and has arranged with Manager S. K. Nainoa for a waltz song to be composed for the chaperon of the Lucky Seven, who as she expressed it, has been neglected and the song should have been made to read the Lucky Eight instead of the Lucky Seven. She has been promised this song and it will be presented to her when she returns with the girls, in about eight weeks. The music is now completed, another catchy composition of this highly talented Hawaiian musician, Mr. S. K. Nainoa.

The departing Bulletin girls were remembered by the club, a lei being sent to the steamer for each young woman.

Gay Time at Moana.

The gay dominoes who invaded the billiard room of the Moana hotel on Tuesday evening made quite a ripple on the calm surface of the atmosphere which usually pervades the exclusive corridors of the sea-girt hotel. They would probably have passed for the sterner sex but a dainty pink slipper and hosiery of silken sheen betrayed indisputably the sex of the fair wearers, and a regular stampede to the billiard room was at once in order. Masks were snatched off or pushed aside, the 'foe' far be it from me to betray who's who. I could a tale unfold which would stir even grim old Diamond Head from its wonted composure.

Will Soon Depart.

Dr. and Mrs. Anderson are soon going to the Coast. Mrs. Anderson, nee Bishop, is an extremely attractive woman. Her very sweet exterior does not belie her charming nature and she will be greatly missed, not only by her aunt, Mrs. W. F. Allen, but by all those who have been fortunate enough to know her.

Longworth Reception.

A beautiful, picturesque scenery, delightful men and women, a delicious punch, much amiability and the Royal Hawaiian band, made up an aggregation which has never been surpassed in Hawaii at the informal reception which was held on Wednesday on the lawn surrounding the Longworth cottage at the Seaside Hotel, Waikiki. Mr. and Mrs. Longworth received all comers in their unique and gracious fashion. Stiffness immediately disappeared and everybody chatted as intimately as though on their own lanai. Mrs. Longworth looked extremely pretty and attractive in a frock of white, null inlet with real Val lace, and made a la Princess. A trace of Alice blue gave a chic touch to the becoming costume and her leghorn hat of ostrich plumes and Alice blue ribbon suited her perfectly. Mr. Longworth was sensibly dressed in morning costume, and it made everybody feel cool to look upon him. Mr. Atkinson, who presented the guests to the Longworths, was in his usual happy frame of mind. Little tables were scattered among the coconut trees, and refreshments were served bountifully. The punch, a special concoction of James Wilder and Nicholas Longworth—a tempting brew—seemed to have a marvelous effect upon even the most somber guest. It was a delightful afternoon and the Longworths, who sail in the Korea, will be greatly regretted by all. They expect to return in two years, and a hearty welcome will be given them if that promise is fulfilled. Charming, natural, thoroughly unspoiled, candid and serene, they are a remarkable couple, and nothing but praise can be given them. The entire list of guests on Wednesday is as follows:

Mr. D. W. Anderson, Mrs. A. T. Atkinson, Mr. A. L. C. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Atkinson, Mr. C. A. I. Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Almy.

Jolly Castle Party.

Mr. James Castle took a jolly party to "The Dunes," Lale, from Saturday until Sunday. They returned in the best of spirits, having made a record trip with the big motor. Speaking of "The Dunes," the artistic country place of Mrs. James Castle, a poem has been written by Miss Anna Paris which has given great pleasure to the fair chateleine. It is as follows:

THE DUNES.
Oh dunes that guard the lonely shore
Sole sentries of the sea,
Attuned in spirit to the lore

Of mystic harmony.
Ye list and hear the matchless choir
Whose songs unceasing roll,
Whose rhythmic notes the tides inspire,
The heavenly orbs control!
So near to Nature's heart ye lie,
So tuneful to her will—
Nor changeful sea, nor threatening sky
Can bring you aught of ill.
Oh vine-clad dunes! Oh lovely shore!
Give to me of your balm,
On my worn spirit breathe the lore
Of your unresting calm!
—Anna M. Paris.

Will Remain Here.

Mr. Harold Castle has decided to remain in Honolulu and has taken a position in Alexander & Baldwin's. Everybody is glad that popular Harold Castle will be here this year.

A New Book.

Robert Moiss Lovett, the husband of Ida Mott-Smith, has just finished his second book, which he has called "A Winged Victory." His first book, "Richard Gresham," was published about two years ago. "A Winged Victory" the Chicago Record-Herald characterizes as "audacious, but never shocking, intensely human and appealing, true and sweet and uplifting from cover to cover." Mr. Lovett is a professor of English at the University of Chicago.

Charming Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tenney gave one of their chic little dinners on Saturday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder. The table, exquisitely decorated in pink, attracted all eyes. Those asked to meet the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. George Potter, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mrs. Helen Noonan and Mr. H. Walker.

Jolly Riding Party.

Mrs. Walter Hoffmann was the hostess on Tuesday of a jolly riding party, the objective point being the bungalow of Mr. Cockburn and Mr. Anderson at Hanalei Bay. The affair was given in honor of Mr. Percival Galt and his friends, Messrs. Weller and Southack. A delicious picnic lunch was served after the dip in the sea. The guests invited included Misses Elsa Schaefer, Alice Cooke, Harriet Hatch and Miss Harneston, who has been stopping at the Moana Hotel.

Charming House Party.

Mrs. F. J. Lowrey gave a charming house party from Saturday until Monday in honor of Misses Linda Schaefer, Beatrice Castle, Justine McClannahan and Edna Gunn, Messrs. Alfred Castle, George Renton, Derwent Kennedy, Frederic, Sherwood and Allan Lowrey. The young people had a glorious time, and the days passed all too rapidly. On Monday Mrs. Lowrey gave a luncheon and the table, set under the trees, looked most inviting with its burden of flowers and greens. Among those present were Misses Lorna Iuka, Lily Paty, Irmgard, Linda and Elsa Schaefer, Nora Sturgeon, Ethel Wilcox, Dagmar Sorenson, Irene Fisher, Edna Gunn, Beatrice Castle, Alice Cooke, Violet and Vera Damon, Justine McClannahan, Ella Wight, Messrs. Wilder, Richard Cooke, "Sonny" Macfarlane, George Renton, Derwent Kennedy, Alexander Walker, Frederic, Sherwood and Allan Lowrey.

Pretty Affair.

The swimming and surfing party which Misses Linda Schaefer and Beatrice Castle gave at the Moana hotel on Wednesday for a few of those going away was a very pleasant affair. Those present were Misses Elsa Schaefer, Alice Cooke, Edna Gunn, Katherine Goodale, Justine McClannahan, Violet Damon, Messrs. Weller, Galt, Southack, S. Lowrey, G. Fuller, A. Castle, A. Jordan and G. Brown.

Expected Arrival.

Miss Mary Krout is expecting soon to be at the residence of Mrs. Henry Waterhouse on Nuuanu avenue. The gifted journalist and writer is engaged in a work of literary merit which has been taking up nearly all her time.

Returning Visitors.

Mrs. Stanley and Lady Herron, who have been in Kona all summer, returned this week after a delightful outing. Mr. Stanley is expected to arrive from Europe very soon.

Alice is Photoed.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth had some very good pictures taken at Rice & Perkins', with which she was much pleased. The poses are especially natural and free from stiffness.

The officers of the Cincinnati were most hospitably welcomed and entertained quite a bit during their brief stay here. On Saturday Captain Quinby gave a tea on shipboard, and among those present were Major and Mrs. Dunning, Paymaster and Mrs. Brooke, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Babbitt, Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Miss Harvey, Mr. Cushman Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Church.

Lieut. Commander G. B. Evans,

Lieut. Hines, Lieut. Neal, Ensigns Hill, Bassett, Hart, and Paymaster Holt. At a little dinner which Captain Quinby gave on Sunday his guests were Paymaster and Mrs. Brooke, Mr. and Mrs. Church, Mrs. Emmet May, Miss Roth and many of the officers.

Mr. George Canavaro, who sailed this week for Minnesota, where he will pursue the profession of forestry, has almost regained his health, much to the joy of all his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Erdman, Sr., will remain in Honolulu for some time. Mr. Erdman was the former pastor of a large church in Morristown, New Jersey.
